The Butterball® secret.

Behind the industry's fastest growing valve.

It's a unique triple O-ring seal, made of Du Pont VITON® fluoroelastomer, between two stainless steel discs, welded to a stainless stem.

Simple idea. But it makes the patented Butterball® butterfly valve better than any valve its size. Better at balancing, throttling and sealing. And usually at less cost.

Butterball offers full-port flow...far more than globe or standard ball valves. The same bubble-tight shut-off as gate valves, but with just ¼-turn open/close and unsurpassed throttling. And you can stock just one valve type, not three.

Without the seal of VITON, this would be just another valve. Tough, resilient, it resists compression and temperature extremes. And it's compatible with hundreds of corrosive fluids. Its exclusive triple O-ring shape seals tight all around the disc edge and the stem as well.

Butterball sizes range from ¼" through 2."
In bronze: threaded (Fed. spec. WW-V-1967, UL listed) or sweat ends, or special Fire Protection model (FM Approved).
In 316 stainless: one-piece or versatile multi-piece body, threaded or weld ends.

Try it. See why Butterball butterflys are revolutionizing valving worldwide.

Prompt claim payment, usually within 48 hours of receipt, is an outstanding feature of the AIA Group Insurance Program. Compare this to the weeks of delay under most other group insurance plans.

It's the hospital identification card carried by participants in the American Institute of Architects Group Insurance Program. It guarantees coverage for the first two days of hospital confinement, generally allowing entry without delays.

curve it... or we'll give it to you straight

Outside or in, it's the building material for the '80s. Flatness that's clean, smooth, and won't ripple, buckle or bulge. Formability that isn't stopped by curves and corners; it bends and folds to your needs.

Alucobond gives you the freedom of design you want for new buildings, renovations and remodeling projects. Colors to add imagination to exteriors and interiors—six plus anodized finishes.

Alucobond is a thermoplastic core sandwiched between two aluminum sheets. Panels are sized up to 5′ x 28′ with thicknesses of 3, 4 and 6mm. We fabricate it, and we sell it.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

ear Colleague:

m pleased to report to you con-erning the activities of your ociety for 1982.

his year we'll see an expanded onor Awards program, with ecognition given to significant rojects on both the State and hapter level.

e look forward to an exciting onvention this Spring in Milaukee. It is appropriate that rchitects gather in Wisconsin's rst city to explore our profesion's challenges, and celebrate s successes.

a Crosse will be the site of ur Fall workshop, and those of ou who have not visited this ity on the great river recently re in for a most pleasant sur-rise. It not only has a treasure f historic architecture, but some ery handsome new structures.
ou should plan some time for ouring.

ur dues for 1982 remain un-hanged, as they have for nearly decade. We are proud of the areful husbanding of our resources and ask that you recognize these efforts to control costs by a prompt payment of your dues.

The Wisconsin Society of Architects is emerging as one of the strongest components of the American Institute of Architects, and is one of the strongest professional societies in the State. The past couple of years have seen an improvement in our economic health, in the effectiveness of our representation with the State Legislature and State Agencies, and in our programs for our members. Much of this is due to a well managed office and staff.

We must remember, however, that this is essentially a volunteer organization, and that our real strength lies in the willingness of individual members to give generously of their time and energy. Our thanks to those many members who have helped. We encourage all members to become active members. Staff and officers of the Society remain eager to learn of your thoughts of our activities and programs.

Architects have long been guided by a statement of ethics, subscription to which was a condition of membership in the AIA. As a result of action by the Federal Government, these ethical requirements were withdrawn and replaced with a voluntary statement of ethical principles. We are now practicing in a different climate, requiring a greater understanding of our clients needs, and greater skill in achieving good architecture.

We find ourselves at the beginning of this year both pleased with the health and accomplishments of the Society, and anxious about what appears to be a difficult economic climate in a near term. We can only proceed with optimism, based on the history of resourcefulness, creativity, and vigor that Wisconsin architects have always shown.

ENERGY CONSERVATION

Insulated Precast Concrete Wall Panels may be the solution to today's stricter building code requirements for Energy Conservation.

At J. W. PETERS & SONS we have successfully produced insulated Wall Panels since 1968. The thickness of the rigid insulation, cast between two layers of concrete, can result in "U" values of .19, .10 or whatever your requirements may dictate. We offer a variety of exterior finishes from form finish to exposed aggregate. All this in either a load-bearing or non load-bearing Wall System! Pictured here is a sample of our "Energy Efficient" Wall Panels:

Owner: Trammel Crow Company; Milwaukee, Wisconsin

Architect: Wilson, Jenkins & Associates; Des Plaines, Illinois

Wisconsin Society of Architects Construction Industry Handbook

Second Edition, February 1982

The WSA Construction Industry Handbook is published as the February issue of the Wisconsin Architect as a reference handbook for all readers on matters pertaining to the Wisconsin Society of Architects, as well as hard-to-find reference material for architects and others involved in the construction industry. A special recognition to Walter Zoller, AIA, for his efforts in advocating the preparation of this Handbook.

The circulation of the Handbook is to all members of the Wisconsin Society of Architects of the American Institute of Architects (WSA). Additionally, copies of the Handbook have been sent to all members of the Associated General Contractors who maintain membership in Wisconsin.

Your comments and suggestions are appreciated with reference to other individuals or organizations that should receive copies of this Handbook next year, as well as revisions or changes in content that you feel are appropriate.

One last word. Please continue to refer to the advertising portion of the Handbook when looking for products or services. Without this support the Wisconsin Architect and this Handbook would not be possible.

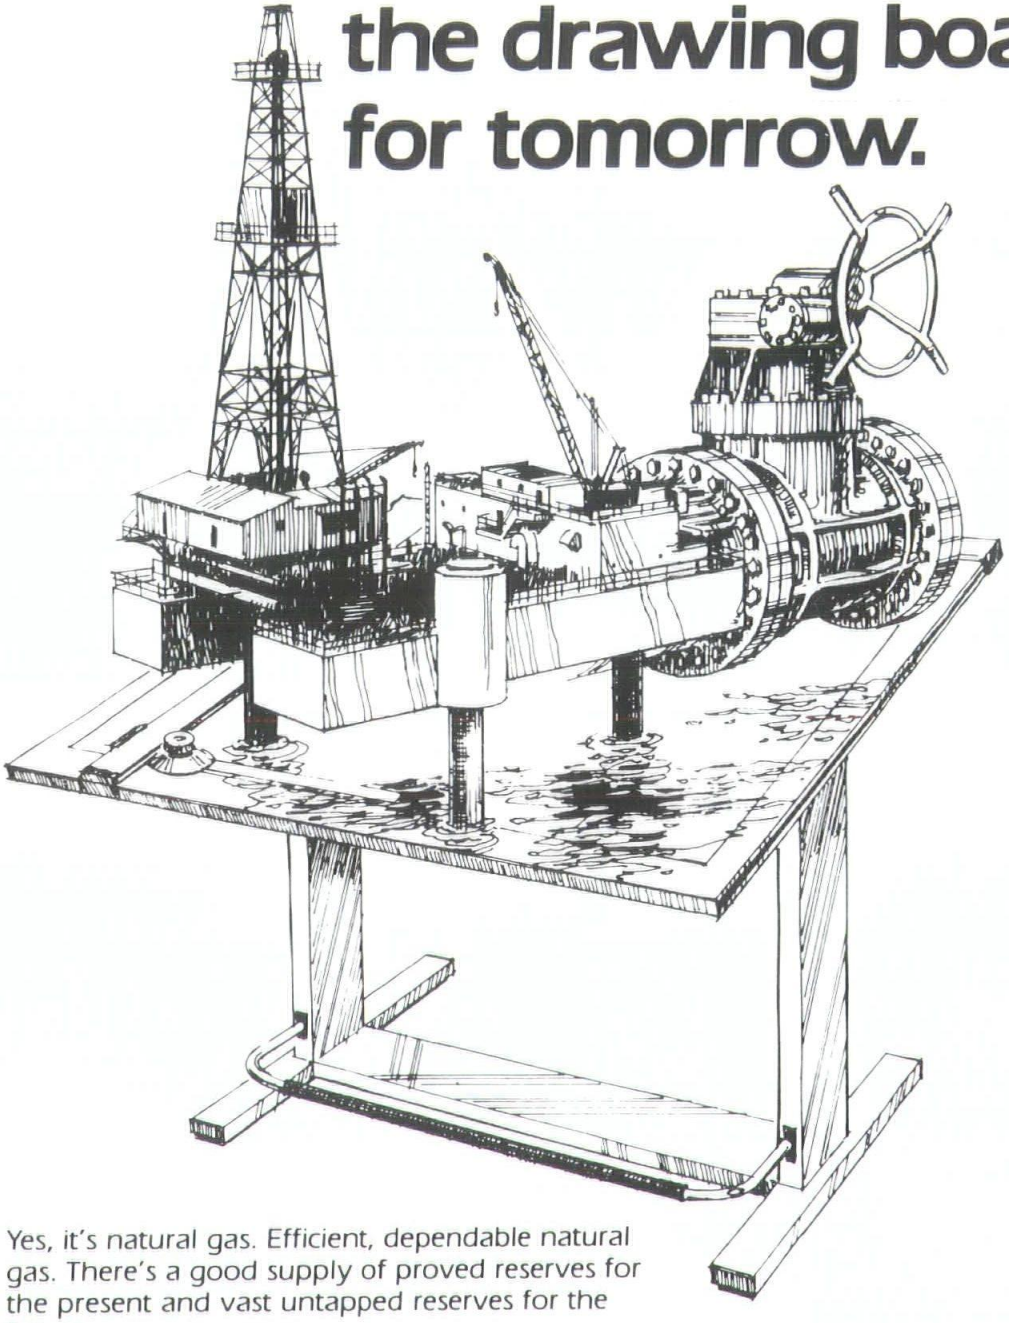
Look what's on the drawing board for tomorrow.



Yes, it's natural gas. Efficient, dependable natural gas. There's a good supply of proved reserves for the present and vast untapped reserves for the future.

Conservation by all customers has been responsible for a great portion of the gas that is now available. Conservation by customers means that we can have more natural gas longer into the future while we develop other types of gas energy — such as coal gasification.

If you have questions or need information, contact us. Wisconsin Natural Gas, 233 Lake Avenue, Racine, Wisconsin 53403, (414) 637-7681. We have the complete natural gas story including availability, cost and conservation measures.

We've made energy communications a function of telephone communications.

If you think the telephone is only for helping people communicate, you haven't heard about Wisconsin Telephone's Dimension* PBX phone system with Energy Communications Service (ECS).

This Bell System development combines internal telephone service and energy control into a single, integrated system.

One communications system is cheaper than two. Dimension/ECS is a major construction cost saver. Since ECS utilizes internal Dimension system phone lines to communicate between its central Energy Console and typical energy-consuming devices, construction costs are substantially reduced. ECS is a part of the telecommunications system, so the total cost is only a fraction of having a separate energy management system.

Savings on fuel and utility costs. Construction costs are only part of the savings of Dimension/ECS. The system can also be counted on to reduce fuel and utility bills by 10 to 20 percent over the life of a building. In some retrofit applications, the system has actually paid for itself in less than one year.

Complete energy control. Dimension/ECS gives building managers control over typical energy-consuming equipment: air handling units, water heaters, elevators, generators, lights, refrigeration equipment, fans and more. It can be programmed to meet the specific needs and energy saving strategies of a building through on-off patterns, cycling, temperature and speed control and peak load reductions.

Advanced phone communications as well. Dimension/ECS also provides some important phone communications advantages: Speed Calling, automatic callback, guard reporting, paging . . . and many other features that can be tailored to the type of building being considered.

The Bell System Dimension/ECS. It's proving that telephone communications is a lot more than meets the ear. For details, call Richard Kaul, Wisconsin Telephone Account Executive for architects and engineers. Call toll-free at 1-800-242-6252.

KOHLER PUTS NOSTALGIA
WHERE YOU'D LEAST EXPECT IT.
There's one thing you can always expect from Kohler: the unexpected. And our newest toilet, the Vintage, with its turn-of-the-century design, will not disappoint you.
The tank is elevated over the moisture sealed, solid oak seat. And beneath that is a bowl of classic design.
And the Vintage design coordinates beautifully with Kohler's "Antique" faucets, the Birthday Bath and pedestal lavatory—the Chablis.
THE BOLD LOOK OF KOHLER
Shown here in traditional white, the Vintage, the Birthday Bath and Chablis are available in a variety of Kohler colors.
All available in the U.S. and Canada. For more information, write to Dept. RK, KOHLER CO., KOHLER, WIS. 53044.

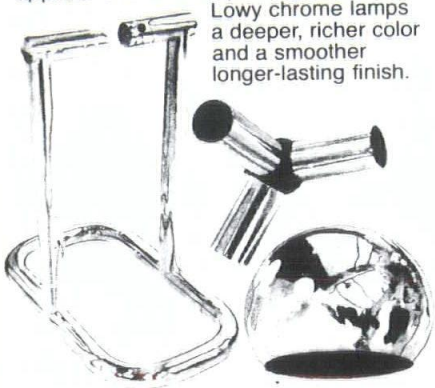
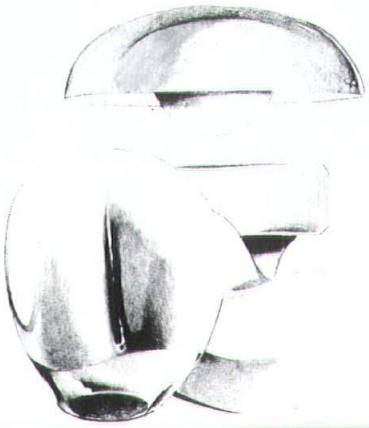
The Chrome Finish

There's only one right way to get a good, durable chrome finish on steel, and that's by applying a layer of copper and a layer of nickel under the chrome. With each layer thoroughly buffed before the next is applied. This kind of quality gives Koch+Lowy chrome lamps a deeper, richer color and a smoother longer-lasting finish.



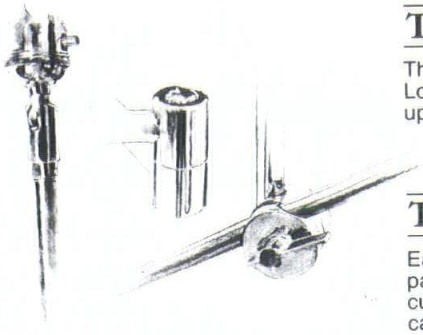
The Brass Finish

Koch+Lowy lamps that look brass are brass. Thirty-one years of experience has taught us how to slow the natural brass tarnishing process. We coat the polished brass with a special clear lacquer, and then bake it to a hard finish.



The Glass

All glass used in Koch+Lowy lamps is hand-blown. This allows for specialized design. And subtle nuances of texture, tone and color in the glass itself. Obvious quality your clients will see and recognize.



The Swivel

Koch+Lowy swivel lamps have a superb enclosed swivel. With all parts of solid brass. Completely machined so they're free of sand holes and cracks.
Koch+Lowy swivels are virtually indestructible. They will never sag, droop or flop. Never need adjustment. And they are noiselessly-smooth thanks to nylon seating-rings. One more reason why Koch+Lowy lamps are a lifetime value. As functional as they are beautiful.

The Wiring

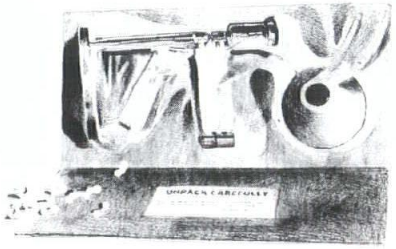
You can't make a quality lamp with substandard wiring. So all our wiring, sockets, switches and connectors meet and often exceed UL standards.

The Heft

The quality that goes into every Koch+Lowy lamp can be felt when you pick one up. Try the "heft-test" against one of our competitors. Feel which is heavier. Then judge for yourself.

The Arrival

Each Koch+Lowy lamp is specially packed in foam, shrink-wrap or other cushioning material. Then they're carefully boxed and shipped.



A Final Reminder

Don't confuse wattage with lighting. In the right lamp even 30 watts can provide sufficient lumens for reading. Proper lamp design can utilize the wattage to its fullest. For brightness. For special effects. Or as an art form. And no one does more with lighting than Koch+Lowy.

The Koch+Lowy collection of classic lighting is designed to coordinate with traditional and contemporary decor. Inspect it at our showrooms around the country or write under your letterhead for our catalogue. For your special large-scale lighting requirements we can start with your designs or ours, and do all the contract work.
At Koch+Lowy we do it all .... right here in the U.S.A.

WSA-AIA State Organization

The Wisconsin Society of Architects of the American Institute of Architects (WSA) with over 700 members is the state component of the national organization representing architects and related professionals in the state of Wisconsin. Members from private firms, corporations, industry, government, and education join together to maintain and represent excellence in architecture, the profession and to the public. This is accomplished through the many programs the WSA offers its members.

WSA membership offers many different opportunities for education and career development. The WSA is striving to help in advancing each individual's architectural skills, professional understanding and career opportunities.

With offices located in Madison, WSA is directed by an Executive Committee which sets priorities of the organization and initiates new programs. The Executive Committee consists of 17 representatives from the state's four local chapters. The president and vice-president of each chapter automatically are members of the Executive Committee. Five Directors-At-Large are elected by the state membership from the local chapters through an at-large election. The four primary officers of the Executive Committee are selected by the Executive Committee itself — from the membership roster of the WSA.

There are in excess of 45 standing commissions, committees, and short-term tasks force which recommend and execute policies, plans and produce programs. Membership on these state groups is drawn from the WSA membership.

When professional architectural expertise is needed by national, state, or local government bodies, members are nominated from the WSA to serve on such committees.

A full time staff headed by an Executive Director, located in Madison, handles day to day operations and is available to all Wisconsin members as a liaison to the AIA and as an information center.

The WSA is composed of four chapters, each having its own Executive Committee and accompanying committees and programs pertinent to its part of Wisconsin and its communities. Emphasis of the chapters is on participation and special events tailored to their needs through local meetings and seminars. All members have the opportunity to affect the direction of their profession and produce progress in many areas.

What is the American Institute of Architects?

he American Institute of Archi-ects (AIA) is the national pro-essional society of the archi-ectural profession in the United States. It has over 36,000 mem-ers who are licensed architects.

he AIA's national headquarters nd staff are located in Washing-on, D.C. It has 50 regions and 50 component chapters across he nation, and a number of Women's Architectural Leagues. Student chapters are active at nany colleges and universities.

he professional society has hree major missions:

. to maintain and improve the competence of today's practitioners,

. to create a sufficient supply of well-trained practitioners for tomorrow, and

. to represent the Institute before professional and industry groups, government, and the public so that good design is encouraged by law and demanded by the community.

nstitute programs are financed hrough members' dues and in-lude a continuing concern with rchitectural design, structure, nd materials; business and pro-uction aspects of architectural ractice; architectural education nd research; urban design; pub-c affairs; governmental affairs; nter-professional and industry elations; and other subjects of nterest and importance to the IA's membership and to the ublic.

he AIA's programs and activi-es are guided by its officers, irectors, committees, and mem-ers, and are carried out by its nembers and staff at the nation-l, regional, and local levels.

THE AIA'S BEGINNINGS

he American Institute of Archi-ects was founded in 1857 by a small group of architects who met in New York City, in a building near Trinity Church on Broadway, to explore ways of improving their profession.

They had much to do. By all accounts, architecture was at a low ebb, and really did not exist as a profession in this country. Until the middle of the 19th century, according to one writer, architecture in the United States was "the trade of carpenter-builders and the game of gentlemen-amateurs".

The architects who met near Trinity Church wanted to improve their public status and do something about the unbridled competition between architects which then prevailed. The result of their meeting was a resolution to form a professional society. Richard Upjohn, architect of Trinity Church, was elected president of the new organization.

Raising the ethics, standards and competence of the architectural profession was no easy task for the founders of the Institute. There were no architectural schools and few books. Adult education for young practitioners was unknown. But, the new organization overcame these problems one by one, and soon the AIA was issuing technical publications. It later added standard documents on such important matters as contracts and owner-architect agreements. In 1913, the first issue of The AIA Journal was published.

In 1899, the AIA moved to Washington, D.C., occupying the historic Octagon House, which it subsequently purchased. Built starting in 1798 and completed in 1800, the Octagon served as the temporary White House after the British burned the presidential mansion in the War of 1812. The Octagon was the AIA's national office until after World War II when the Institute moved to a new headquarters building behind the Octagon House. The Octagon was then opened to the public and has since been designated a National Historic Landmark.

In 1969, additional restoration was undertaken.

THE AIA TODAY

Membership in the AIA is open to every licensed architect who is a citizen of the United States and can satisfy his local AIA chapter and the Institute's Committee on Membership that he has the necessary professional qualifications.

The Institute is vitally concerned with architectural education and training. Professional schooling of architects begins with five or six years of study in an accredited school or college of architecture. Then, three years of internship in an architect's office are required. It is now mandatory that architects take rigorous written examinations to be licensed or registered to practice in all states and territories. The National Council of Architectural Registration Boards serves as a clearing house for state licensing boards in this regard. In 1940, the AIA helped to organize the National Architectural Accrediting Board. Today, there are 63 schools of architecture in the United States accredited by NAAB. Most architectural schools have AIA student chapters. There is close cooperation between the AIA and the faculties of the colleges and schools which are members of the Association of Collegiate Schools of Architecture.

Members of the Institute may be recognized by the use of the letters "AIA" after their names. The letters "FAIA" after an architect's name signify that he is a Fellow of the AIA, an honor bestowed for achievement.

TO: MEMBERS OF WISCONSIN SOCIETY OF ARCHITECTS
AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS

We are pleased to announce that the Chippewa Falls High School is one of eight projects selected for "Excellence in Masonry". A representative from David Lien & David Peterson Architects, Inc. describes the project as follows:

"The construction materials used during the 1950's and 60's, aluminum curtain wall, porcelain panels, single glazed windows were robbing the school district of thousands of dollars in high energy consumption.

The school district received an Energy Conservation Measures grant from the U.S. Department of Energy to improve the insulation value of the walls and windows.

A wide variety of insulated wall systems were evaluated with attention to cost, maintenance, insulation, ease of installation and compatibility with adjacent structures.

The most appropriate wall system and the least expensive was a very conventional one of face brick, rigid insulation, steel studs, fiberglass insulation and pre-finished gypsum board. The window surface was reduced considerably and improved with double glazing and thermal break frames.

Masonry construction has proven to be a logical response to the primary considerations of the school district."

Congratulations to David Lien & David Peterson Architects, Inc. for "Excellence in Masonry".

Very truly yours,

MASONRY INSTITUTE OF WISCONSIN, INC.

TEAK and KARPAWOOD
for parquet floors

The warm, natural look of a Teak or Karpawood parquet floor is treasured now more than ever before. These two imports are a delight to those who love the rich-grained beauty of wood.

TEAK is the ultimate in beauty, elegance and prestige . . . yet, it is very hard and will last for decades.

KARPAWOOD, known in Thailand as ironwood, is harder than oak, and has an extremely low coefficient of expansion.

Both woods are available from our Chicago warehouse in many UNfinished and PREfinished patterns.

Phone (collect) for free samples, brochures of 80 floor designs, technical information, prices. Or, write:

BUILDING RESTORATION CONTRACTORS
WISCONSIN AND SURROUNDING STATES

1982 DIRECTORY OF ARCHITECTURAL FIRMS

INTRODUCTION

If you are contemplating the construction of a building, be it a small porch addition to a home or a multi-million dollar medical school, your first step should be to contact an architect who is the single professional who is equipped through training and experience to guide you through the entire building process. The roster that follows this article has been developed to provide you with an alphabetical listing of architectural firms in Wisconsin who have at least one principal who is a member of the Wisconsin Society of Architects and affiliated with the American Institute of Architects. Only those firms that completed the necessary questionnaire are listed.

In recent years the economics of construction have changed the context with which construction is undertaken. Inflation, high interest rates, fluctuations in labor and materials supplies, and other factors have all increased the cost and complexity of new building construction. Architects, as leaders of the building profession, have responded to these problems with innovative approaches in the delivery of their services. This article attempts to provide an overview of the important features of the three major delivery processes now available in procuring architectural services. It is important to note that the discussions of these different approaches are simplified.

No matter which approach is followed, the owner should draw on an architect's expertise early in the planning process. An architect can help develop the program, define the building requirements, minimize costs, expedite construction, provide innovative design input, and coordinate the entire building process in order to provide the owner with the most economical building in the least amount of time. Architects are also well equipped by training and experience to provide guidance on which project delivery approach is best suited to the project's needs. This choice can be a major factor in determining the cost and quality of the project.

DESIGN — BID — BUILD

This is the traditional method used in a vast majority of buildings. The architect is retained to prepare detailed design and construction documents. When the final design and construction documents are approved by the owner, they become the format for soliciting contractor's bids and awarding a construction contract. During the construction process, the architect acts as the owner's agent, administering the construction contract and monitoring the progress and quality of the contractor's work as provided by the contract between the owner and the architect.

This approach has numerous advantages including:

1) It is a reasonably straightforward and administratively simple process.

2) It maximizes the owner's involvement in decisions pertaining to the project.

3) It provides a firm cost figure prior to the beginning of construction.

4) During the construction process it insures that the owner's interests are looked after by a knowledgeable professional.

5) While there are admittedly numerous variations to this approach, its use is most generally accepted and basic.

6) Through the process of time, standard form contracts, procedures, and court decisions have evolved which provide specific guidance to the use of this process.

CONSTRUCTION MANAGEMENT

In its simplest form, Construction Management is a specialty service where the owner pays a fee to a construction manager for managing the project. This service is most often in addition to contracting with an architect. Different versions of Construction Management occur which can provide confusion to those who are new or not familiar with the changing building industry. Some architectural firms include construction management (CM) among their professional services. Others add it only when projects are complex. Either way, in some situations an experienced construction manager can provide the designer with detailed cost information specific to the project on cost, labor and market conditions, availability and delivery schedules for equipment and materials, and construction technologies. The owner usually contracts with both the architect and the CM, allowing all three parties to work together in a team approach, permitting the owner control in design and construction quality and giving the owner assurance for adherence to budget and time scheduling.

DESIGN-BUILD

In the two delivery approaches previously discussed, the architect normally maintains its separate identity and its role as the owner's agent. In design-build, this is not the case. Instead, the architect is part of a firm or partnership that both designs and constructs the projects. The intent in this kind of delivery system is that the owner develops a single-point responsibility i.e. a single entity responsible to the owner for design, construction, time scheduling, and a guaranteed maximum price. Since in many instances the design-build entity is required to maintain a guaranteed maximum price in changing costs markets, the owner's program and control may have to be tailored to enable the design-build team to build and buy at a cost which is within the guaranteed maximum price. One of the primary distinctive characteristics of a design-build approach is that the architect designing the project is a part of the design-build firm, as opposed to the architects traditional responsibilities acting solely as the owner's agent.

SELECTING THE BEST APPROACH

Not all of these delivery approaches are suitable for every project. The choice between these approaches, and between the many possible variations to each approach, is best made with the guidance of an architect. The architect's familiarity with local construction practices, market conditions, and the owner's specific requirements, priorities and constraints can provide the best guidance regarding the delivery approach to be used.

In working with your architect multiple variables will be identified which will determine the best delivery approach. Considerations of cost, occupancy date, design control, construction quality, financing, etc. all should be taken into account in determining with your architect the best approach for the project.

We encourage your review of the following roster to provide you with architectural firms who should be contacted in the early stages of planning in order to assist you with some of these decisions. The itemization of services shown on the attached roster reflects recent work. A particular firm may offer professional services in other fields which have not been listed by virtue of their education, experience and staff. The WSA makes no warranty or representation regarding the competence or specialization of architects or firms identified in this directory.

"The Professionals"

"SO...YOU'RE GOING TO BUILD A NEW BUILDING..."

TAKE THE H.V.A.C. TEST

- ☐ Are you aware of the importance of having an air conditioning system which has been properly tested, adjusted, and balanced?
- ☐ Do you know what the cost factors are in maintaining and repairing improperly balanced systems long after the contractor's warrantee has elapsed following construction?
- ☐ Are you concerned about initial cost and whether or not the contractor's efforts to cut costs may seriously affect the original design as prepared by your engineer?
- ☐ Do you want to rest assured that your new air conditioning system is going to provide you or your tenants with the type of economic, trouble free comfort levels you intend to provide them?
- ☐ Do you care about warrantees which will protect you against future costs and which will guarantee that the work has been done according to nationally accepted procedures and time tried methods of testing and balancing?
- ☐ And last, do you want to know how you stand to lose valuable construction dollars through contractor manipulation of bid figures and substitutions?

IF YOU ANSWERED YES TO THE SIX QUESTIONS ABOVE, CONTACT BAL•AIR! Certified Member:

In addition, our Executive Office acts as the CIA for the architectural profession, the construction industry and the general public.

Architects usually call with questions on ethics, documents, application for license in another state, renewal of license, supplemental dues, questions on insurance, etc. And we're always on the phone helping someone to locate a job in an architectural office, or assisting an architect in finding someone to fill a vacancy.

A great many calls come in from all segments of the construction industry and legal profession inquiring about codes, documents and legislation.

Innumerable calls are received from the general public — prospective clients in need of architectural services seeking guidelines as to how to go about retaining an architect. What do they do? and What do they charge? are the most frequent questions asked by the unsophisticated callers.

While the great majority of calls formerly came from individuals seeking architectural services on a very small scale (a residence, an addition to an existing building), more and more calls are now being received from prospective clients with considerably larger projects in mind, i.e., a library, an educational building, a municipal complex. We use all of these instances as opportunities to educate the public on the true nature and value of architectural services, advising them on the best method of selection, etc.

No matter what the need — call us. We'll do our best to fill it.

CHILD WENT FORTH
Our cities are central - we can't ose them, we must make them ork." A thoughtful and innova- e film which first examines the fect the inner city environment d schools have on children d then presents constructive lutions. Examples of new chitectural design of schools ows how a good environment r learning is created. An in- resting converted warehouse used to offer new experiences art, music, etc. The possibili- s are endless. A good atten- n holding film - fast moving, od music background. 28 min- es, 16mm, color, sound, up-to- te (mid-late 70's), good for high hool to adult.

RCHITECTURE USA
celebration of "modern" Ameri- n Architecture as of the late 50's. Compares the modern me of today to the days of the rlor. Also looks at offices, hools, churches, hotels, hos- als, etc. with the theme "Bet- Life Through Better Architec- re". Probably best used as an storic study of American patri- sm in the cold war years. 25 nutes, 16 mm, color, sound, 50's, grade school age.

E BEST WE CAN DO
e American Dream: moving out the suburbs, the ideal com- nity. This dream community, wever, often is a nightmare. or planning, identical houses, non-practical non-community. is film examines possible rea- ns why these poorly planned mmunities happen the way y do and then shows exam- s of "the best we can do" - me well-designed communi- s. Actions that can be taken citizens to assure this good anning are included: amending ning ordinances, reorganizing vernment financing programs and recognizing the importance of good architectural design. 15 minutes, 16 mm, color, sound, mid-60's, junior high school - adult.

CONVERSATIONS WITH AN ARCHITECT
Throughout history architecture has been a dominant part of the environment and has reflected the needs and values of the society. What are the needs and values of today's society? "Conversations With an Architect" takes the viewer into an architect's office, to meetings with clients and other professionals, and into other areas of the planning process as the architect deals with shortages of building materials, energy concerns, the desire for more efficient and pleasant working and living environments, the practicality of remodeling old instead of building new, etc. The film uses as examples a school, office, housing project, and then on a larger scale goes to Reno, Nevada where a volunteer group of architects from the AIA assess the city's problems and help to develop a plan for future urban planning. 30 minutes, 16 mm, color, sound, 1976, good high school movie, could be used for adults, produced for AIA by Madison Productions, Madison, Wisconsin. Has accompanying brochures.

DESIGNING A BETTER TOMORROW
Examines the concept of architecture, comparing it to art, music, sculpture, etc. Identifies the factors which go into the designing of a building: scale, form, color, texture, social purpose, etc. Shows what you learn in architecture school. 14 minutes, 16 mm, color, sound, 1960's (somewhat outdated in appearance), junior high or high school career film.

DOWNTOWNS FOR PEOPLE
When you want to go someplace special, somewhere beautiful and exciting, with open space for a leisurely stroll, a place where everything is happening, where do you go? DOWNTOWN?!! Many of us when thinking of a trip downtown conjure up pictures of crowds of people, noisy and congested traffic, and choaking exhaust fumes. This film shows examples of successful downtowns planned with people in mind - mostly in European cities we admire and vacation in with their beautiful fountains, plazas, outdoor cafes, street vendors, etc. and a few American examples. This film reminds us that we are human and challenges us to be aware and involved in the urban planning of our downtowns because "a vital downtown happens only with intent". 24 minutes, 16 mm, color, sound, 1971, good for junior high - adult, brochure.

THE NOISEY LANDSCAPE
This film criticizes the mass of neon, and garish store signs that litter our cities creating chaos and ugliness. Expresses the need for a comprehensive plan of order and design that people can enjoy and shows some examples of successful redesign — Ghirardelli Square in San Francisco, Cross Keys in Baltimore, etc. Suggests the use of graphic design and color to communicate to people. 13 minutes, 16 mm, color, sound, late 1960's - 1970's, junior high - high school.

RIGHT OF WAY
A commentary on the lack of planning in our city highway systems which often creates the situation of pedestrian vs. motorist. Shows examples of aesthetic and practical ways to balance pedestrian and auto movement such as tunnels through buildings and the blending of buildings and highways. 14 minutes, 16 mm, color, sound, mid-60's (out-of-date style and K-Mart music but message still relevant), junior high to high school.

NO TIME FOR UGLINESS
The ugliness in our cities - no trees, suburban uniformity, pollution of lakes and rivers, deterioration of buildings, garish signs, etc. Who did it? Banks, realtors, government, all of us who didn't stop it. Who suffers the consequences? We all do. What can be done? Design good buildings, revive the center of the cities, good quality low income housing, plant trees, bring river and people together instead of hiding it, etc. What can you do? Become aware of what is wrong and why, promote business leadership, call on architects. 26 minutes, 16 mm, color, sound, mid-late 60's, junior high, high school, adult, booklet.

WHAT DO THEY HAVE IN COMMON?
This slide presentation shows 23 architectural projects designed by women. The projects represent a wide range of design styles located throughout the United States. From Wisconsin are four buildings designed by Lillian Scott Leenhouts: Ted Friedlander residence, Door County; Pau Hausmann residence, Lapham Peak; Sam Gates residence, Wauwatosa; and Cambrudge Apartments for the elderly, Milwaukee. 49 slides, no sound, designed to run continuously in any public space, includes handout brochures identifying slides.

BUILDINGS, BLAZES AND BOX-OFFICE

An answer sheet is provided for architect or teacher. Good for school groups junior high or high school.

THE AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS STATEMENT OF PRINCIPLES

REAMBLE: Members of The American Institute of rchitects are dedicated to design excellence and the ghest standards of professionalism, integrity and comtence. The following principles are guidelines for the luntary conduct of members in fulfilling that obligan. They apply to all professional activities, wherever ey occur. They address responsibilities to the public, hich the profession is expected to serve and enrich; to e clients and users of architecture, who sustain it and ve it life; to colleagues in architecture, and in the ilding industry, who help to shape the built environent, and to the art and science of architecture, that ntinuum of knowledge and creation which is the legacy the profession.

MEMBERS SHOULD ACCEPT THE PRIMACY F LEARNED AND UNCOMPROMISED PROFESONAL JUDGMENT OVER ANY OTHER OTIVATION IN THE PURSUIT OF THE ART ND SCIENCE OF ARCHITECTURE.

is is the essential definition of professionalism. Its apcation pervades and underlies all other ethical prinles.

. MEMBERS SHOULD CONFORM TO THE IRIT AND THE LETTER OF ALL LAWS OVERNING THEIR PROFESSIONAL AFFAIRS.

rough their training and licensing, architects have en entrusted with the responsibility to protect public alth, safety and welfare in the performance of profesnal duties. This obligation begins with registration ws and extends to laws governing business practice, litical activity and social responsibility.

I. MEMBERS SHOULD UPHOLD THE REDIBILITY AND DIGNITY OF THE PROFESON.

e credibility of the profession is advanced by the dication, proficiency and integrity of its members and their achievement of architecture of the highest funcnal and design excellence.

s detrimental to the public image and the credibility of chitects for members to exploit their professional status any endorsement, publicity or business that is unnified or unrelated to architecture. To endorse a ilding product, system or service for a consideration is professional, as is the use of misleading advertising, timonials and other presentations.

. MEMBERS SHOULD THOUGHTFULLY CONDER THE SOCIAL AND ENVIRONMENTAL IPACT OF THEIR WORK.

e construction and use of the built environment conmes significant amounts of resources and impacts directly upon society and the environment. Members should seek to complement and support environmental quality, conserve resources and respect the heritage of the past. They should be advocates for the needs of building users and through their designs seek to enhance the pleasure and satisfaction of all who are affected by their work.

Recognizing that the knowledge and attitudes of the public affect the quality of architect's contributions to society, members should promote public awareness and appreciation of the role of the built environment in advancing the quality of life. They should be involved as citizens and professionals in matters of policy and planning relating to these issues.

V. MEMBERS IN ALL THEIR PROFESSIONAL ENDEAVORS SHOULD SUPPORT HUMAN RIGHTS AND SHOULD NOT DISCRIMINATE AGAINST OTHERS.

Members should be fair and equitable in all their professional undertakings and relationships, including their dealings with their associates, employees and employers. In the course of carrying out their professional responsibilities, members should not discriminate against anyone or any group for reasons of race, creed, color, sex, national origin, age or handicap, and should strive to provide equal opportunities for all.

VI. MEMBERS SHOULD BE CANDID AND TRUTHFUL IN THEIR PROFESSIONAL COMMUNICATIONS.

The integrity of the profession depends upon truth and candor in all forms of communication. There is no justification for misleading discourse. This principle applies to advertising, promotional endeavors and presentations. It also applies to reports and proposals, which should not create confusion or unreasonable expectations on the part of clients because of lack of information or clarity.

Design solutions and other presentations should be based on adequate information so that they do not deceive a client or mislead a potential client in evaluating the capabilities of the architect. Since improperly structured design competitions carry the same risk, members should advise the competition sponsors of recognized professional standards.

VII. MEMBERS SHOULD SERVE THEIR CLIENTS OR EMPLOYEES IN A THOROUGH AND COMPETENT MANNER.

Member should evaluate their resources and ability to perform given tasks and should undertake only assignments which they and their associates are competent to perform. They should not neglect responsibilities entrusted to them.

Members should exercise informed judgment on all issues affecting the client or employer, establish compensation and conditions conducive to competent performance, and accept responsibility for the quality of their work.

VIII. MEMBERS SHOULD RESPECT THE CONFIDENCES OF THEIR CLIENTS, EMPLOYEES AND EMPLOYERS.

The traditional professions have long recognized that their members are obligated not to violate the confidentiality of information acquired through their professional relationships. For architects, however, this principle is not protected by law and it may be in conflict with other important values. When such conflicts arise, members should resolve them by weighing the alternative consequences, including applicable legal requirements and the dictates of conscience.

IX. MEMBERS SHOULD DISCLOSE TO A CLIENT OR EMPLOYER ANY CIRCUMSTANCE THAT COULD BE CONSTRUED AS A CONFLICT OF INTEREST AND SHOULD ENSURE THAT SUCH CONFLICT DOES NOT COMPROMISE THE INTERESTS OF THE CLIENT OR EMPLOYER.

While not inherently unethical, conflicts of interest can and often do provide the context for unprofessional conduct and damaged professional relationships.
Disclosures made in a timely, complete and forthright manner is the first step toward an ethical resolution; the performance of a member in a position of apparent conflict is the final measure of integrity. A member holding an interest, or representing a client or employer with an interest, that could be affected by the member's professional judgment exercised on behalf of others should decline to offer such judgment unless the circumstance is fully disclosed and accepted by all parties.
Members should never be compromised by influences or motivations, monetary or otherwise, not directly related to the achievement of architecture of the highest order. They should not violate positions of trust or responsiblity to further their own business interests. In making commentary or providing professional judgment on a given issue, they should disclose the source of any compensations related to that issue. They should not accept compensation from more than one party to a contract for the same service.

X. MEMBERS SHOULD ACKNOWLEDGE RESPECT AND GIVE APPROPRIATE CREDIT FOR PROFESSIONAL CONTRIBUTIONS O EMPLOYEES, ASSOCIATES AND COLLEAGUES.

Members should respect the reputation of others as th would their own. They should share credit for wor honors and awards with employees and associates wh contribute to a team effort. They should not claim cred for the work of others in seeking a commission or emplo ment. They should acknowlege that architecture is o art among many and should facilitate the work of th allied professions, arts and crafts.
Members should recognize an obligation to speak out c matters of public significance to their art and professio but in so doing, should be guided by profession knowledge and conviction and bear no malice of purpos

XI. MEMBERS SHOULD COMPETE FAIRL WITH OTHER PROFESSIONALS AND SHOUL NOT OFFER OR ACCEPT ANY BRIBE OR IM PROPER CONTRIBUTION OR GIFT TO O TAIN OR GRANT WORK OR TO INFLUENC THE JUDGMENT OF OTHERS.

It is in the best interest of clients, the public and the pr fession for members in pursuit of business opportuniti to support fair and open competition based on profe sional merit.
Unfair or illegal practices employed to gain a competiti advantage or influence the judgement of others are pr fessionally unacceptable.
Members using agents or employees to seek or perfor work should take full responsibility for their performan and ethical conduct. Members should assure that su agents or employees understand and be guided by the ethical principles.

XII. MEMBERS SHOULD MAINTAIN AND A VANCE THEIR KNOWLEDGE OF THE ART AN SCIENCE OF ARCHITECTURE, RESPECT TH BODY OF PAST ACCOMPLISHMENTS AND CO TRIBUTE TO ITS CONTINUED GROWTH.

It is the responsibility of all members to develop a maintain their knowledge of the art and science of a chitecture and to be guided by that knowledge in all pr fessional actions. Colleagues should share a disseminate technical information and strive to impro their professional competence.
Members have an obligation to maintain and advance t learning and competency of the profession and co tinually seek to raise the standards of design excellenc research, training and practice. They should support t educational process, improve the standards of archite tural education and asist students and interns in th training and development.

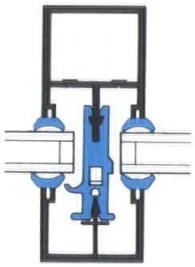
Go Straight To Cronstroms When Your Designs Call For Curves

Lake Superior Maritime Museum, Architect: Architectural Resources, Inc., Hibbing, MN; Army Corps of Engineers



Even though energy efficiency is the watchword in public buildings today, that doesn't mean you have to shackle yourself to time worn designs. Instead, consider the benefits of Cronstroms CTS thermal barrier system. Its energy-saving design eliminates metal-to-metal contact in curved or straight designs. And that means no frost or condensation, even at temperatures of -30°F. Of course, that's something you'd expect from Cronstroms. Cronstroms was the first to develop this thermal break system 14 years ago.

You'd also expect to find unusual applications of the CTS system. You will.

At the Lake Superior Maritime Museum located on Minnesota's waterfront in Duluth, a location buffeted by winter's bone-chilling gale force winds, the architect specified Cronstroms CTS thermal barrier energy saving walls and windows for a new addition linking two sections. Notice the bent mullions of the upper section.

You'll find another distinctive CTS design at First Federal Savings and Loan where curved mullions frame the glass entry doors.
